A letter from leadership

Since 1977, the Hudson Hospital Foundation has worked to improve the health and well-being of our patients, members and community. With the support of these groups, the foundation has provided funds for various programs and services that meet the health care needs of our growing community. We assisted in funding the new hospital and clinic campus, helped to build a universal playground for children of all abilities, supported drug prevention in our local schools, and so much more.

In 2019, the foundation launched an Emergency Center expansion campaign. When the expansion is completed, our Emergency Center will be able to treat more patients more efficiently. Some of the new treatment rooms will be designed to treat serious conditions as well as our patients experiencing behavioral health crises. We are so pleased to report we achieved our campaign goal of raising $1 million for this project, which would not have been possible without the community. Thank you for showing your support at our yearly events, our community meetings, and through your generous donations.

We ended 2019 with Tessa Boury joining the foundation. Together with the community, hospital employees and our patients, we plan to honor Hudson Hospital Foundation’s past and continue building a bright and broader future to carry out our mission.

We look forward to continuing the good work of meeting our community’s needs.

Emergency Center expansion

Last fall, Hudson Hospital & Clinic broke ground on a $5 million project to expand the Emergency Center. The project will increase the number of exam, triage and trauma rooms – creating a better experience for patients and their families, and a more efficient workspace for Emergency Center colleagues.

The hospital’s former Emergency Center was built in 2003 and was designed to provide care for about 8,400 patient visits per year; current volumes are approximately 11,500 visits per year.

According to Tom Borowski, Hudson Hospital & Clinic president, “The expansion of our Emergency Center will provide next-generation care to the community for years to come. We’re improving access for patients and families; providing the latest technology in diagnostic and trauma equipment; enhancing behavioral health care for patients experiencing mental health crises; and creating an overall comfortable healing environment for patients and visitors.”

To support the cost of the project, the Hudson Hospital Foundation launched a $1 million fundraising campaign, and the community generously responded. We are so grateful that, with the support of people in the community and grants from local foundations and businesses, we achieved our campaign goal in early 2020.

Watch for news of our donor event and open house to the community later this year, and come celebrate with us!
DONOR SPOTLIGHT

Hudson residents give back

Hudson Hospital Foundation is successful because of our supporters and donors, many who live right here in our community. Linda Robertson and Warren Schneider, longtime Hudson residents, have both used Hudson Hospital & Clinic for care, including our Emergency Center. Since the Emergency Center expansion fundraising campaign began, Linda and Warren have been supporters. From speaking with their friends, neighbors and community organizations about the need, to making donations directly to the campaign, Warren and Linda have been up for it all. “We have witnessed the many ways that Hudson Hospital & Clinic has contributed to this community and the new emergency department is another commitment for good,” shared Linda.

We support the Emergency Center expansion — not just for us, but for the health and well-being of the whole community.

DONOR SPOTLIGHT

Oncology nurse gives to help patients

As an oncology and infusion nurse at Hudson Hospital & Clinic since 2012, Jenny Maier knows firsthand the challenges that many patients face when undergoing treatment. Some patients receive more than 500 hours of care, and some visits can last six hours or longer. Jenny donates to the Infusion Center Fund through Hudson Hospital Foundation’s Employee Giving Campaign. The fund provides support for equipment to help patients receive the most comfortable care possible, recently purchasing reclining chairs with heated seating and back rests, and massage functions. Every cent of every donation to the foundation is used to benefit patients, the community and the hospital.

Patients often express ideas of how their visits could be improved, and we give these ideas to the foundation. Patients’ ideas become reality and that is so rewarding.

I encourage Hudson Hospital & Clinic employees and our community to take time to walk through our public corridors throughout the year to view some of the local and regional artists we highlight, as well as enjoy the beautiful work we exhibit outside.

PROGRAM SPOTLIGHT

Healing Arts program

The Healing Arts program at Hudson Hospital & Clinic began in 2003. We are so proud of our partnership with Phipps Center for The Arts, which provides access to local and regional artists’ work.

Through the years, hundreds of artists’ works have been displayed throughout our hospital and clinic campus. In 2019, our Healing Arts program hosted 49 artists with solo exhibitions and seven unique group exhibits, which equaled 140 artist participants.

The art in the interior of our campus rotates every month. You will also find Jayne Bachman’s Linger Longer Labyrinth on our campus, which sits amid a beautiful backdrop of nature. All are welcome to enjoy the healing nature of the art throughout our campus.
Operation HELP

Operation HELP offers a diaper bank for community members who are in need of financial assistance. Clients using the diaper bank can pick up 80 to 100 diapers every month for each child in their family. We are proud this program is expanding in 2020 and are honored to support this community need.

Reach Out and Read

The Hudson Hospital Foundation supports Hudson Physicians’ Reach Out and Read program by fully funding the purchase of the program’s books. Every child from birth to 5 years old receives a developmental age- and language-appropriate book at their well-child visit. The distribution of free books to children and the accompanying discussion about reading aloud give young children a foundation for success.

Community grants

Each year, the Hudson Hospital Foundation receives applications for and makes grants in the community to further our mission of improving health and well-being. In 2019, our grants helped support higher education, transportation, diaper needs and reading programs.

Student scholarships

Every year we fund scholarships for high school students in our community who want to pursue a career in health care. In 2019, we funded $10,000 in scholarships for recent graduates of Hudson High School.
